

The 2015 drag racing points season ended Sunday evening as two veteran racers faced off for the Duck Race honours. Jim Green from Berwick, New Brunswick pulled to the starting line in his son Mark's 2001 4-link dragster to face Charlottetown's always tough, Dave Constable and his 1969 Chevy Camaro. The points races were all over and championships decided, but it seemed fitting that these two great sportsmen, racing for little more than the love of the sport would finish the weekend's events. Constable did win the race, but drag racing on Prince Edward Island was the real winner.

In the Super Pro Division, Kandy Mitton from Sussex, New Brunswick faced tough competition all day, but managed to side-line such notables as Dave MacKinnon, Blair Walker, Jason MacNeil and Todd Chase before meeting and narrowly defeating Hunter River's Glenn MacLean, courtesy of a .520 reaction time and an E.T. of 6.45 on her 6.45 dial-in. Todd Chase of Riverview, New Brunswick grabbed third place with a win over Bathurst, New Brunswick's Clayton Chamberlain.

With her win, Mitton managed to work her way up the points ladder to second place with 153 points, just 8 points behind this year's points champion, Ricky Beal from Midgic, New Brunswick. John Rankin from Mt. Uniacke, Nova Scotia was third with a 143 total.

In the Pro Bracket Division, Vaughan Boone from Vaughan, Nova Scotia drove his 1970 AMC to victory over Bill Kelly's 1978 Nova from Long Point, New Brunswick in the class final. Bill Sheppard from Lakeview, Nova Scotia finished third when he lost to Kelly in the semi-final.

Although, Boone did defeat Wellington's Brett Ramsay in the second round of the Pro Division, Ramsay was the run-away points champ garnering an amazing 206 points. Aaron Crowe from North River, Nova Scotia was second with 122 while Ty Agnew from Riverview, New Brunswick was third with 110.

Chris Pozzebon from Gardiner Mines, Nova Scotia made his trek from Cape Breton to PEI count as he mowed his way through the competition in the Bike/Sled class only to meet and defeat fellow Cape Bretoner, Gordon Ferguson from Homeville in the class finale. Kevin King also from Reserve Mines, Cape Breton made it a "Caper Sweep" by edging Trenton, Nova Scotia's Megan Horton for third place.

The Bike/Sled season points winner was Glenn Frizzell's #2 Arctic Cat from Charlottetown with 133 points. Frizzell also grabbed third place honours with his #12 sled which earned 122 points. Very close behind Frizzell's #2 sled, with 131 points was the Honda motorcycle of Darren Creamer from Mt. Stewart, PEI.

Carl Leeman from Letang, New Brunswick may have lost the day's final race in the Street Division to Dani Rippey from Windsor, Nova Scotia but he won enough rounds on Sunday to have a comfortable lead in the year's points race which he won with 165. Richard Leger from Shediac was second with 132, one point ahead of Tyne Valley's William Newcombe. Darrell King from Reserve Mines, NS was third for the day in the class.

The new ADRA class, the Sport Compacts, was won by Chris McCarville from New Haven, PEI when he defeated Dani Rippey in their final. Terell Provo from Dartmouth, Nova Scotia was third.

The Junior Dragsters had a busy weekend at the park finishing their points and running three races. On Saturday, Berwick, New Brunswick's Rylie Green defeated third place finisher, Carson Nauffts from Dartmouth, NS in the semi-final and then edged out Hannah Ranni from Stellarton, NS in the final.

On Sunday, Rylie's brother, Jensen, was the star as he defeated the same Hannah Ranni in the class final to not only win the day's event but capture first place in the points race with 176. Rylie had to settle for second with 144. Cole Crowe from North River, Nova Scotia was third for the day and Hunter River's Dawson Toombs finished third in the year's points with a 123 total.

On Saturday, 65 cars started the Electronic Division of the Gamblers' Race, and after seven rounds of racing, the old campaigner from Belleisle Creek, New Brunswick, Richard Boyd, emerged victorious over Benny Niesten from Millville, Cape Breton in the final pairing.

John Rankin from Mt. Uniacke, Nova Scotia won the Non-Electronic Gamblers' Race with a final round win over Sunday's Pro winner, Vaughan Boone.

A "Quick 16 " class was won by Dave Constable when he defeated Todd Chase in their final.

The Stock/ Super Stock tour were also in attendance on Saturday and ran their always efficient and exciting eliminations with Mineville, Nova Scotia's Kelly MacKay defeating Jack Keirstead from Onslow Mountain, Nova Scotia in their final.

The next and last race of the season will be the Turkey Trots on Thanksgiving Weekend, October 10/11.

There will be at least one more Tuesday night street race and a couple of Sunday afternoons are planned for later in the month.
